CCLA Member Partners - MicroWorks

MicroWorks was founded in 1983 to integrate network technology and software solutions for private and public organizations. MicroWorks focuses on information organizations for whom the production and management of information, knowledge, and know-how is key to their success. We offer a wide spectrum of services from IT strategy to information management and client management. We provide the fully deployed solution and technical infrastructure to make it all work together.

MicroWorks is pleased to make the following offer to CCLA's members:

- A two day Management Information and Technology Strategy evaluation program that includes a background review of an organization's corporate mission and strategy, an initial assessment meeting with the client, an analysis of findings and a presentation of key issues to senior staff. The work includes a strategy and roadmap which recommends the appropriate technology required to support the organization in fulfilling its mission and objectives.

The cost for this 2 day evaluation is approximately $2950.00. It is available to CCLA members for $975.00.

- A one day Management, Information and Technology evaluation program that is directed at smaller organizations. It includes an assessment meeting with the client, an analysis of the resulting findings and a teleconference with the senior staff to discuss the key issues. The work identifies current risk areas and recommends the appropriate technology required to support the organization in fulfilling its mission and objectives.

The cost for this one day evaluation is approximately $1475.00. It is available to CCLA members for $500.00.
